Submitted by andre on Tue, 12/31/2013 - 22:57

Just a very short message about the RamperPro. We are very happy to announce that the development of the RamperPro is finished. We have finished the electronics and the software has reached a stable version 1.0. Production will start in January and we will ship the first units in February. Pre order now if you want to be sure that you can get a unit from the first production run!

We will use the upcoming weeks to update our site and to finalize the online user manual. The user manual is already online, so that you can get a feeling of all the advanced capabilities that the RamperPro offers.
